

Story 7

My story in my own words

Being anonymous is not my choice, neither do I like it. But since I belong to a very traditional family, I have no option than to hide the gay side of my identity in public. Even on Grindr for example, it is rare to see anyone with their real names on display.

It was happen in childhood I was sexually abused by some close relatives from childhood I'm very pamper child and have soft and slim body like girls. Ppl in school call me girl and some school friends know my weakness I was forced to have some orals in school toilets even some male teacher also came about that and they also treated me as they like. Though I have know issues and I'm proud what I'm but yes only regret is too I have to hide my gay side from family and society.

I know in Punjabi family it's very awkward to be gay, to be frank it's by birth not by choice. I'm looking for good friend Sardar and Punjabi friends to have good friendship and share our thoughts.
