Story 34

My story in my own words.

I always liked face painting ever since i was little. At the age of about 15 I opened an ig page where I used to post my face art and it picked up really well and I made a lot of friends. I was loving it.

Then I started getting a lot of requests to do a glam look. I only used to do animal face painting and never ever thought about doing a girls look. It was embarrassing to me so i ignored it for a very long time. But after getting like 15 requests pestering me to try it once I gave in and frankly I was embarrassed clicking pictures of me like that but I posted them and the reaction I got was overwhelming. It was the most liked post on my feed by far.

This made me feel good about the look so I did it again 2-3 times for my followers until I actually started liking it. I was so into it by then that I started to complete the look by wearing my mom's clothes even 😛

And thats how i came to know that i was infact a femboy 😊
